

Who we are

- We are a small guiding company.
- We are not the oldest tour Agency!
- We are young people with many things to learn.
- We love travel in wild nature.

The only thing we can guaranty is to take care on every detail about safety, Comfort and happiness of our clients.

Our 2 strengths are the places we choose to make our trips and the people who work with us, which turn into a combination of good and respectful relationship with our guides, the local people, our customers and the environment.

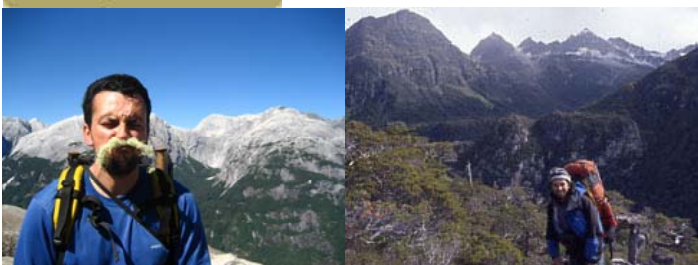

Margarita Gross

Miralejos Travel Assistance is the link between the beautiful places we visit and our clients. Has great skills in organizing tailor made trips and focuses in GUIDIND our clients into choosing the trip that better satisfies their expectations, talents and interests.

Bring nothing but Silence....Seek nothing but Shelter....Take Nothing but Pictures
Kill nothing but time.....Live nothing but foot prints.

Rodrigo Condeza

Rodrigo is a guide, photographer and founder of Miralejos. In one way or another, he has always been in contact with nature and during his time as a university student he developed a deep respect and love for nature which has lead him to travel and do several courses with the aim of preparing himself to develop outdoor activities professionally. He has done a mountain guide course at the Escuela Nacional de montaña (ENAM), a semester course in Patagonia by NOLS, First Aid Certificate by Wilderness Medicine Institute, Avalanche Safety Course in New Zealand and he knows about the Chilean flora and fauna. All this preparation has allowed him to climb mountains in Chile, Bolivia and New Zealand and do several trekking and exploration trips by land and sea. His trips have given him the chance to see the colorful and dry desert in the north, to climb the main mountains in the Central Andes, walk in the exuberant vegetation of the cold rain forest in the south of Chile and sail through fiords and glaciers in the Chilean Patagonia.

“My heart feels full of joy when I am working or traveling in wild nature, this is what I like to do, this is what gets me up every day. All the effort and dedication are rewarded by a ray of sun, the flight of a bird or the smile of the traveler.... We are nature...!”

Matias Prieto

Matias is a mountain guide and an Explorer who loves life and nature. His nomad spirit has taken him to several expeditions in Chile and several other countries. In each of his adventures he has tried to be in direct contact with the local people thus opening his eyes to different ways of life.

He has done High Mountain Climbing Guide Courses (Escuela Nacional de Montaña de Chile) , first aid for open air activities (Wilderness First response, Chilean Red Cross, and First Aid at the New Zealand mountain Council). He has also done a course on Avalanche threat and Chilean Flora and Fauna.

He Works as a mountain guide in different areas of the Chilean Andes, a sea kayak guide in the coast and Chilean fiords, he does trekking in National Parks and Horse riding.

“To be in contact with nature is to be in contact with myself and the natural elements, is to be able to enjoy the wonders of life and to realize that silence, no matter how silent it may be, it always has something to say. It is about the feeling of being alive and to realize that I have gained another day in life”

Marco Garrido

Marco has a degree in Tourism Enterprise management, he is an instructor and mountain guide certified by Escuela Nacional de Montaña. A fluent speaker of English with a wide experience in tourism, logistics and to carry out expeditions. He works as a guide in Patagonia, Central Andes in Chile and Argentina, he does expeditions to Pumalin Park, Chaitén and its surrounding areas where he lives most of the year.

He gives lectures at universities for adventure tourism students. He has a good knowledge of the flora, fauna and geography of our country. He has a wide experience in expeditions and tours to the south of Chile and Patagonia. He is a very happy person and is always willing to teach what he knows.

Fioreza Marinkovic

Fioreza is a Geographer and a mountain guide, Master in Preservation and Natural Resources Management, University of Barcelona. In 2003 she took part in the “Semester at Patagonia”, a course by the NOLS. She has done several expeditions in Chile- central Andes, north of the country and Patagonia – as well as in Peru and Bolivia. Between 1999 and 2003 she worked in environmental adventure and leadership educational programs for children and adults. She is a natural traveler and an amateur photographer. During all the years I have devoted to be in close contact with nature, specially in the mountains, I have come to realize that teaching field courses is what I like the most. The sensation you get when you see how people fill up with energy just by being in their tents or by enjoying a hot cup of tea at 6000 meters is something that cannot be explained. As a mountaineer and also as a geographer, "I think Chile is a place where geography and people create a special magic, a magic that can be seen in people’s traditions and in the landscape beyond compare".

Federico Morel

He is a guide, carpenter and a mechanic who was born and raised in the south of Chile. He has been in direct contact with nature for the last 10 years being in close contact with its secrets and virtues. His adventurous spirit has taken him to several expeditions in this, his beloved land and he has worked as trekking guide in National Parks. His love for forests has led him to create Candelaria Private Park which objective is to protect and rescue ancient Alerce forests. He puts in this activity as well as in his trips with Miralejos all his heart and soul.

Local Guides

We work with many local guides that have been traveling and living all their life in this remote valley of Patagonia, we hire their load horses and we share the love for this land and we learn from their deep knowledge of nature around.

Office support
